

LIVING A LIE

“Living A Lie” has a little kick to it, both in story and music. Sung by a male or female artist, solo or band. It’s a loud, hard driving song with a message to match. Have you ever felt like you’re not being honest with yourself? You’re trying to make it work, but it just ain’t gettin’ it! You’re fed up with the whole scene. You’re not feeling good about yourself, and the people around you are just bringing you down. Well, join the party. Sooner or later it’s time for a change.

“I’ve been thinkin’ ‘bout, maybe bailing out, going back home
Try it again when I’m healthier, when I’m wealthier
‘Cause it’s so damn hard living a lie
And I’m not about to fake it, and I know my heart can’t take it
When every time I make it, I think I’m gonna break it
No, I just can’t take it anymore”